ATIEL releases new EELQMS website

Brussels, 28th September 2026

ATIEL, is pleased to announce the launch of the new EELQMS website <https://www.eelqms.eu>, providing a modern crisp design, with enhanced functionality and improved navigation, it enables a user-friendly gateway to the European Engine Lubricant Quality Management System.

The new website brings together key information, guidance and tools for lubricant marketers, developers, manufacturers and other stakeholders, making it easier to understand and apply the EELQMS requirements.

EELQMS plays a key role in the lubricants industry, supporting consistent product quality, robust development and manufacturing processes, and credible performance claims. It provides a common framework across the value chain and is the quality management system recognised for supporting claims against the ACEA Oil Sequences.

We invite you to visit the new EELQMS website and discover the resources available to support quality and compliance across the industry.
